Issue

The recalled product does not meet the labelling requirements of the Consumer Chemicals and Containers Regulations, 2001 under the Canada Consumer Product Safety Act.

These products pose an aspiration hazard if ingested. Aspiration into the lungs can occur when the product enters the lungs directly or is coughed up or vomited after being ingested. This coughing/vomiting could cause small particles of the product to travel into the lungs, or the product may be inhaled directly in the form of a fine mist.

The lack of appropriate hazard labelling information could result in unintentional exposure to the product and lead to serious illness, injury or death.

As of April 12, 2023, the company has received no reports of incidents or injuries in Canada.

What you should do

Consumers should immediately stop using the recalled Old English Lemon Oil product, contact Reckitt Benckiser for reimbursement, and then dispose of it safely according to local municipal waste requirements.

For more information, consumers can contact Reckitt Benckiser's toll-free Consumer Relations hotline at 1-800-888-0192 from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. E.T., Monday through Friday, or online at ConsumerCare_USA@reckitt.com to share proof of purchase of the recalled product and request a refund.

Please note that the Canada Consumer Product Safety Act prohibits recalled products from being redistributed, sold or even given away in Canada.

Health Canada would like to remind Canadians to report any health or safety incidents related to the use of this product or any other consumer product or cosmetic by filling out the Consumer Product Incident Report Form.
